Re: Resolution Authorizing the repair of the foam fire suppression system in the hangar portion of the EMS building

Late last year while in the process of negotiating a update to the lease with U of M we discovered an issue with the foam fire suppression system in the hangar portion of the EMS building. We specifically addressed this in the lease making the cost of repairs their responsibility as that system is required for them because of the type of aircraft that they house. The lease requires us to conduct the repairs to the system but the entire cost is billable to U of M.

Since then we have been working with local Survival Flight leadership on scheduling the repairs and ensuring they were in a position to pay for them once completed. They recently gave us the approve to move forward but they were not able to pay the vendor directly and wanted us to follow the language in the lease agreement. This we need to conduct the repairs and in turn invoice U of M for the cost.

This repair is outside the allowable amount for a departmental approval ($39,900.00) and the reason for the resolution to get the board approval of the expense. This should not have any impact on the EMS budget or bottom line. We simply pay the invoice and float the cost until the bill is paid by U of M in the next 90 days.

This is pretty straight forward despite my lengthy explanation. If you have any questions or concerns do not hesitate to reach out.
